

142

Chrysomelidae

The last specimen nearly always shows irregularities, an entire hemelytra is broken, with children. The small brownish spots on the sides, appearing only in the middle of the wing, are the sign of the species. The specimens are mostly small. It is not very common, and is found only in the middle of the valley, and in the mountains. The specimens are probably from the same place, and are probably from the same place, and are probably from the same place.

The flight to the west, which is found in the mountains, is called by the natives "the flight to the west". It is a very common phenomenon, and is found in the mountains, and is called by the natives "the flight to the west". It is a very common phenomenon, and is found in the mountains, and is called by the natives "the flight to the west".

Chrysomelidae
 The flight to the west, which is found in the mountains, is called by the natives "the flight to the west". It is a very common phenomenon, and is found in the mountains, and is called by the natives "the flight to the west".

Chrysomelidae
 The flight to the west, which is found in the mountains, is called by the natives "the flight to the west". It is a very common phenomenon, and is found in the mountains, and is called by the natives "the flight to the west".

(c) Craig Childs

Field Journaling with Students-BEETLES Pt. Session Materials

Chrysomelidae

17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914

17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914

17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914

17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914

17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914
 17 miles S. of Grantsville, Utah, 11/14/1914

Field Journaling with Students-BEETLES Pt. Session Materials (c) Robert Stebbins

