

Stebbins, R.

Catlyne

1995 Empidonax griseus at 500 ft. Jackson Nat'l Monument

264 Melanerpes formicivorus } Oct. 11

265 " " } Oct. 11

266 Colaptes auratus } Oct. 15

267 " " } Oct. 15

Oct. 16, 1995

267 Thryomanes bewickii 8:00pm

268 id. 8:17pm

269 Sialoparus magnificus

270 Coccyzus erythrorhynchos

Oct. 17, 1995

271 Red Phoebe intransitoria 15:00pm

272 id. 16:00pm

273 W. Gnatcatcher

274 ♀ "

275 ♂ "

276 ♂ "

277 Colaptes auratus

278 " " }

279 " " } about Oct. 14

280 " " }

281 Red Phoebe intransitoria

282 id. "

283 ♂ "

284 ♀ "

285 " "

November 8

Cambridge

7:30 am

preparing to go to

Wye

happen to look at

to squirrels in

neighbor's

Abney maple.

Heavily eating

orange seeds.

They had

probably fattened

up.

White snow on the banks of the river.

I notice five

of hundreds of squirrels.

flash by.

Are they all around

and out just

about night?

A quack P.M.I

7:30 am

preparing to go to

Wye

happen to look at

to squirrels in

neighbor's

Abney maple.

Heavily eating

orange seeds.

They had

probably fattened

up.

White snow on

the banks of the river.

I notice five

of hundreds of

squirrels.

flash by.

Are they all around

and out just

about night?

